

help serve the transformation of human consciousness

CONFERENCE DESIGNER & TEAM FOCALISER

full time residential position

This job advert is written in acknowledgement of the individuals that over the span of our history have carried an FF conference impulse to fruition - the visionaries, attuners, organisers, managers, administrators, dedicated volunteers of all kinds, organisational partners and collaborators and all beings that have contributed to this long line of impactful gatherings in the midst of our very potent transformational field.

For decades, the FF Conference Team has shaped and facilitated these offerings and at this moment in time, we give thanks to the current constellation of coworkers who are now completing their time in the conference office on a very high note - with the delivery of the massively successful CCC19 conference! Thank you Sohini, Graham, John W, Britta, Barbara & Karen L for your vibrant dedication and very skillful navigation!

As we look to the future, asking ourselves what the spiritual work of our time will be, a vision is forming for the kind of FF Conferences we want to develop for 2020 and beyond.

We imagine an annual conference wholly led by the FF on both the content and logistics side - drawing from our core impulse and principles and in cooperation with aligned collaborators. This conference will be held at the same week every year and we'll build the line-up of contributors and themes gradually in the months leading up, in order to respond to the zeitgeist and to enable us to facilitate emergence. We want these conferences to build collective capacity to embody a We consciousness and to have real transformative and positive impact in the world. Beyond the conference, we envision a continued facilitation of networks that have been created, projects that want to grow and participants that want to further the conversations and learning.

You are the right person if the paragraph above speaks to you, and you have availability and desire to spend the next two years of your life designing and ensuring the impactful delivery of such conferences and to build and lead a competent team to do so. If this is you, you'll likely have some background that is relevant, along with some immersion time within the FF, either recently or in the past.

This is a full-time residential position - open to existing and former staff and senior Leaps. We are seeking a minimum commitment of 2 years, with a standard trial period of 6 months.
